

Our Method for Guiding Writing Includes

- Clarifying assignments
- Attending to overall meaning
- Addressing learners' concerns
- Identifying patterns of strength
- Responding with questions and strategies

So that's how you cite Websites!

HOURS

Monday—Thursday 10 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Friday 10 a.m. - 2 p.m.

Evening Sun., Mon., Wed., 7 - 9 p.m.

(Call for Fairhaven satellite hours)

Open 24 hours for online paper submissions at...

www.acadweb.wvu.edu/writingcenter

Staff Information

Writing Assistants

College Hall 9, 650-3219

Roberta Kjesrud, Coordinator

College Hall 3, 650-7338

Where Writers and Readers Come Together

Western Washington University

College Hall 9

Bellingham, WA 98225

Email: Writing.Center@wwu.edu

Where Writers and Readers Come Together

Writing Center

College Hall 9

650-3219

www.acadweb.wvu.edu/writingcenter

So should I move this whole section?

WHO WE ARE

A free resource, the Writing Center welcomes learners engaged in the reading and writing processes. By appointment or drop-in, with draft or without, learners may meet with our qualified learning assistants in face-to-face or online conferences.

In conferences, learners and learning assistants work together to identify learners' strengths, brainstorm ideas, clarify thesis and organization, and practice revising and editing strategies.

I know what it feels like to write—the feelings of isolation, fatigue, helplessness. I know what it feels like to be stuck, and I know what happens when I can talk about my writing to an interested person.

—A Writing-Centered Writer

WHAT WE DO

Our services include

- Face-to-face response on course papers, essay exams, and applications/resumes.
- Written response to drafts submitted online.
- On-site computer lab.
- Software, books, and handouts for grammar practice, developing ideas, citing sources, Web and graphic design.
- Specialized assistance for writers with learning differences or with English as an additional language.

Hey, how are you doing your conclusion?

HOW TO USE US

*Wow, the example in your intro is fabulous!

To your writing conference, bring any brainstorming or drafts that you have. Or come by with your assignments for help in selecting topics and getting started. Either way, to set up a conference simply

- Stop by College Hall 9 (use entrance nearest Carver Gym)
- Sign up on the schedule for a 25- or 50-minute appointment.
- Call us at 650-3219.
- Or visit us online at www.acadweb.wvu.edu/writingcenter